1-Day Bangkok Photography Courses

You will discuss composition, light, camera control and creative exposure techniques. You will be encouraged to slow down and appreciate your surroundings, to look carefully at your chosen subjects, evaluating how the light is falling on it and combining these photography tips and techniques to realize your creative vision.

The 1-Day Bangkok Photography Course concludes with a full review of the images captured during the day with suggestions on how best to further your photographic development.

Photography Technique

This is a constructive, practical 1-Day Photography Workshop run by a practicing professional photographer in a city that hurls photo opportunities at you at every turn. But despite the abundance of opportunities the majority of visitors to Bangkok simply don't see them, that perfect image is often not that obvious, and this is what the workshop really focuses on; your visual awareness . . . teaching you to see!

The Workshop does not linger on adjusting camera settings but instead concentrates on helping you to compose effective compositions, to develop creative camera control whilst discovering ways to achieve your creative vision. You will also glean many hints and tips from Gavin about how to sensitively approach subjects for portrait photographer and much more.

Whether you are an amateur or semi-professional photographer a day spent with Gavin in Bangkok will greatly improve your photography technique and provide you with a portfolio of eye-catching Bangkok images.

Location, Location, Location

If you have a particular field of photography that is your specialty, tell us and we will design a Bangkok Photography Course to meet your objectives as far as possible. You may want to focus the day on getting Portrait Photography Tips, Street Photography, Architectural Photography or simply to get out with a professional photographer to learn basic photography.

Either way you are free to select the locations that you prefer. For some suggestions go to the "Location" tab where some of Bangkok's sights and attractions are described such as the Grand Palace, Wat Pho, the Chao Phraya River and more.

About the Photographer

You will spend the day under the guidance of a professional photographer in Bangkok who works on assignment and shoots stock images for both Getty and Lonely Planet in over 40 countries. The Photographer also holds regular exhibitions in both London and New York and his images frequently appear in international media and advertising campaigns for clients such as Sony, Nissan and Vogue.

1-Day Bangkok Photography Courses

Itinerary

Bangkok Photography Workshop Itinerary

The itinerary for the day is actually designed entirely around you and the subjects that you would like to shoot. Below are some example itineraries for the 1-Day Bangkok Photography Course that might inspire you:

Weekday Photography Course:

The Morning

Start the Bangkok Photography Course early in the morning on the banks of the Chao Phraya River and jump onto a River Taxi bound for Pak Klong Talaat, the largest wholesale flower and vegetable market in Asia. Topics covered include camera control; preparation and anticipation; creative exposure settings; compositional guidelines; street portraiture.

Time is spent creating and constructing a photo story, pausing to review lessons learned over a mid-morning cup of tea. At the end of the morning the photography course breaks for lunch not only for sustenance but also to escape the hottest time of day when the sun is overhead and the light is flat.

The Afternoon

Reconvene at mid afternoon in time to get on location in Chinatown Bangkok during the best light of the day. During the afternoon session you consolidate all the Photography tips and techniques learned in the morning to give you more of a structured approach to photography. Before setting out on the afternoon session you are encouraged to list specific photographic goals for the afternoon so that by the end of the day you have built a portfolio of images suitable for use in a photo essay.

As dusk looms and the sun begins to sink its time to shoot some long exposures. Your vantage points could be above the traffic and neon lights of Chinatown or opposite Wat Arun (the Temple of Dawn) to capture magnificent sunset images. If you choose the latter the vantage point is highly likely to be on the roof of somewhere which also dispenses "sundowners", a perfect end to a perfect day in Bangkok!

Weekend Photography Course

Chatuchak Weekend Market adds itself to the list of locations in Bangkok that could be considered for your photography course and several hours spent here with Gavin will give you endless Photography Tips! Camera control; preparation and anticipation; creative exposure settings; compositional guidelines and street portraiture can all be covered at Chatuckak. Time permitting you may be able to squeeze other locations into your 1-Day Bangkok Weekend Photography Course as well.
